quitting college he went to Atlantic City and Cape May, and began a sort of gipsy life, the object of which was to roam about the beach at all hours, watching for a chance to reason to questioned by any legislature or door, and returning, said to Mr. watching for a chance to rescue mperiled bathers. Soon a railroad company put him in charge of a lifeguard station, and had saved, personally, seventy-one lives. By this time his reputation became national, and Boyton saw a chance for a great future.

He turned his mind to inventing a life-saving suit, and soon the task was completed, the

This promise was fulfilled and Boyton landed in Bai-timore, the cliffs of which place form the but the one of ability should ever be considbreakwater of Europe, during the most terrible storm that ever visited that coast.

During the hurricane fity-six vessels were lost. His wonderful feat was telegraphed all over the world, and Queen Victoria hearing of the matter invited the young American to give an exhibition before the English court and royal family. This was followed by his trip across the English channel. Hoppeddled down the Rhine, Seina Garrone, Po. Arno. own the Rhine, Seine, Garrone, Po. There is no sacrifice of digni-fearful of killing the captain, three of whose tyor principle in this course, and certainly rios were broken in the contest. This ex-perience taught him a lesson, as when he once, and put the question out of the way lowever, he was not attacked, and accomplished the journey after nineteen hours hard | now, that enough has been exacted from the work against head-winds and perverse cur-rents, landing at two o'clock in the morning on the sandy beach in front of Tangiers. By the bright moonlight the storm-belated man could discern the two guards of the city gates, who, upon perceiving the extraordin-ary apparition, prudently retreated, closing the gates after them. The next minute the alarm was sounded, the gongs were beaten the mosques and the soldiers through the street crying cut the Moorish tongue, *Awake, ran through the street crying cut in the Moorish tongue, "Awake, awake, it is better to pray than sleep, for the devil has just landed in Tangiers." For a few moments the Eardy royageur was in great peril, and the soldiers would certainly have brought his career to a close had it not en lorthe promptness of Colonel Mathews he American minister to Morocco, who earing of the matter, and guessing at the truth, hurried to the spot and explained matters to the affrighted populace. Upon Captain Boyton's return to France the govgrament appointed him a captain in their e-saving service, and gave him charge o f all the drills in that department. An effort was made to charter into the regular service the captain's vessel, "Paul Boyton," out the captain refused to strike the American colors from his steamer's stern, and by special courtesy of the French covernment, the stars and stripes were allowed o remain in their position, and "Paul Boyton" is only vessel in the world carrying the colors of one nation in the service of another. Last December Captain Boyton returned to America on a vacation, having just finished drilling three hundred men for the coast service. After a few days in New York, be eceived an invitation to give an exhibitibefore President Hayes, cabinet, houses of congress and foreign ministers, in the navy yard. Then he returned to Pittsburg, his native place, after a lapse of twenty years While here it is said that several enterpris ournalists went to the site of the captain d home and dog the ruins in bones of re vering the arcient and original shingle with which the gallant captain's trousers were so often warmed in sunny childhood. While in littsburg, a desire seized the captain make a voyage on the waters in which he had first learned to swim; for as the navigator himself said: "It was a pity to see so much good water running to waste," Accordingly, early in February, he started from Oil City, Pennsylvania, and has been on the voyage ever since, en route for the Gulf of Mexico. The captain has suffered seyond the power of words to express, by thinks the worst is past. He is hopeful of reaching New Orleans by the twenty-fifth, when the Crescent City will throw open her doors and welcome to the south the mar who has conquered the terrors of the ocean and won so many honors for our people in Nearly Ninety Thousand Dollars Be ing, and to be, Invested in Building improvements in this City During the Next Year.

An APPEAL reporter discovered the follow ng notes as to the progress of building im rovements in Memphis. The improvement progressing, or to be made during the presat year, under the direction of Jones & Baldwin, architects, are as follows: D. D. Thomas, contractor; O. H. P. Piper A. F. Davis, painter; J. C. Hook & Co., gai vanized iron and tin work; Randle & Liver more, iron work; Murray & Martin, plumb-Z. V. Margerum, stone work. Cost $28,000.

St. Agnes's academy, Vance street. T. F. Callahan, contractor. Cost, $12,000. Will be ready for occupation June first. St. Mary's cathedral, Poplar street. John seed, contractor. Cost of improvement, Tw.) residences for Alex, Murray, Esq., Vance street. Cost, $5300. Residence of G. W. Macrae. Esq., Adams street. Contractor, D. D. Thomas, Cost, Residence of Ben Bingham, Esq. Con tractor, D. D. Thomas Cost, $4300.

Store improvements for Steve Francioli, Court street. J. P. Mahoney contractor; cost, Beale street Baptist churan, completion of Church home, Raleigh road. Proposed imHeart. F. D. Paradise contractor; outlay, $1000. Louisville railroad passenger depot. Proposed outlay, $15,000.

The above improvements sum up the amount of $80,700. The erection of a passenger depot by the Memphis and Louisville railroad company, at the head of Main street, is something that has been badly needed for some years. The erection of the building, however, may interfere materially with the Union passenger depot on the upper landing.

Best Manner of Treating Kidney Disease S. T. Hancock, an old citizen of Richmon ney disease for twenty years and have tried many temedics, but in vain until recently when I obtained of W. H. Scott, a druggi of this place, a Benson's capeme porous p ter. I felt relief a few hours after apply it. In twenty-four hours was entirely ! from any pain, and am now perfectly well Benson's capcine porous plaster is one of the marvels of the age. It was invented as an improvement on the ordinary porous plaster. It contains all the merits of the latter article and in addition a new and powerful comb nation of active vegetable ingredients, which causes it to have an influence upon the system far more beneficial than that of the common, slow-acting porous plaster. Its man velous properties give almost instant reli from pain, and insure a more certain and quicker cure than any known plaster, lini-ment or compound. Sold by all druggists. Take no other article. Price, 25 cents.

THE MURDER

Of Porter, the Actor, and the Wound ing of Barrymore-A Bloody and Brutal Tragedy in Real Life-The Victims of which were from the Mimie Stage.

What Miss Cummins, now playing at the Memphis Theater, and the Lady who was the Unwitting Cause of the Awful Crime, has to say about It.

Miss Cummins, of the Warde and Barry more dramatic company, who was present at the killing of B. C. Porter and wounding of Mr. Barrymore by the assassin Currie, at farshall, Texas, gives the following account of the affair: She says that she, Mr. Barry-more and Mr. Porter while at Marshall, Texas, waiting for the train, went into a railroad eatinghouse for supper; which eatinguse was some short distance away from the hotel. They sat on high stools, usual in such railroad restaurants, and ordered sur per. Mr. Porter ordered beer, and Mr. Bar Mr. Porter said by way of jest that he was more, shooting him in the left arm. M. Porter said: "Don't shoot; I'm unarmed; but Carrie shot at him, and then Mr. Porter clasped his hands over his stomach and started for the door. In a few minutes found myself alone. Currie drew two pistols, and aimed them at me. I said to him: "Please, don't shoot me." For two hours
